SENATE SPLITS

when the resolution was adopted. Two bills, senate bills No. 1 and No. 2, were introduced by Senator Stoddard. No. 1 would repeal a house bill of the regular session authorizing the state to underwrite bonds of irrigation districts, and the other proposes repeal of the proposed constitutional amendment under which the state would have had power to exchange its bonds for irrigation bonds.

The governor's message was apportioned and the various sections were assigned to revised and consolidated senate committees.

ROADS RESUME

(Continued from Page One) Pima has a problem in the Ajo road situation and we all wish her well and there is no doubting that we must have a road through Ajo to Stovall, or Artee, or some connection to make a military short line worth while from Tucson west, but the problem is "how to get it."

The seven per cent and primary-secondary matters are still in the air as the power that he have not issued a statement as to the meaning and a letter just at hand says Alabama and Mississippi find themselves in a similar mix up.

Work on the "missing link" between Fairbank and the Santa Cruz line is being centered on the heavy work where the road crosses the wash at the Harkey ranch and as soon as that is completed the main camp will be located at Fairbank.

This road will be travelable long before construction is finished, over a temporary road, which is gladome news to the motorist.
